Kamakhya Temple: where to stay, by arrival mode

Three realistic choices, and the right one depends on how you arrive, not on the star rating.

Option 1: Nilachal Hill lodges

- Walking distance from the temple.
- Basic, lively during festivals, and not always bookable online.
- Best for very early darshan.

Option 2: City centre

- Paltan Bazaar, Ulubari, Dispur side.
- The right base if you arrive by train, because the station is close.
- Temple is roughly a 25 to 40 minute drive depending on traffic.

Option 3: Airport side

- The sensible base if you fly in or out the same day.
- Choose it if you would rather not do a long city transfer after landing.

Practical points

- Go before 7 AM; queues and traffic both build after that.
- Dress modestly, carry little, security is tight.
- During Ambubachi Mela in June expect crowd control and road closures; book a month ahead.
- Hire a driver for the day if you want Umananda and Navagraha too.

Hotel Shiny Grand

- 35 rooms, 1.7 km from Terminal 2, 24/7 front desk.
- The airport-side base that avoids a morning crossing of the city.
- Free luggage storage if you drop bags and go straight to the temple.
